PhD Student Fellowship Program

Call for Nominations: 2011 IEEE Electron Devices Society PhD Student Fellowship

Description: One year fellowships are awarded to promote, recognize, and support PhD level study and research within the Electron Devices Society's field of interest.

It is expected that three fellowships will be awarded, with the intention of at least one fellowship being given to eligible students in each of the following geographical regions every year: Americas, Europe/Middle East/Africa, and Asia & Pacific. Only one candidate can win per educational institution.

Prize: US$5,000 to the student and if necessary funds are also available to assist in covering travel and accommodation cost to attend the IEDM for presentation of an award plaque. The EDS Newsletter will feature articles about the EDS PhD Fellows and their work over the course of the next year.

Eligibility: Candidate must: be an IEEE EDS student member at the time of nomination; be pursuing a doctorate degree within the EDS field of interest on a full-time basis; and continue his/her studies at the current institution with the same faculty advisor for twelve months after receipt of award. Sponsor must be an IEEE EDS member. Previous award winners are ineligible.

Basis for Judging: Demonstration of his/her significant ability to perform independent research in the fields of electron devices and a proven history of academic excellence. Nomination Package:

- Nominating letter by an EDS member
- Two-page (maximum) statement by the student describing his or her education and research interests and accomplishments
- One-page biographical sketch of the student (including student's mailing and email addresses)
- One copy of the student's under-graduate and graduate transcripts/grades. Please provide an explanation of the grading system if different from the A-F format.
- Two letters of recommendation from individuals familiar with the student's research and educational credentials. Letters of recommendation cannot be from the nominator

Timetable:

- Nomination packages are due at the EDS Executive Office no later than May 15, 2011
- Recipients will be notified by July 15, 2011
- Monetary awards will be given by August 15, 2011
- Formal award presentations will take place at the EDS Administrative Committee Meeting in December 2011.
- Nomination packages can be submitted by mail, fax or e-mail, but a hard copy must be received at the EDS Office.
